AMESEMENTS TO-NIGHT.

FORD's ATHENEUM -This evening, a grand combination entertainment. Gottachalk and Brignoll's Italian opera and concert company will entertain the Washington public to-night. grand combination embraces the best vocal and instrumental talent in the country, and includes the celebrated Prima Donna, Miss Maria Louisa Kellogg, who will make her debut before the Washington public in the role of Marie, in Donizetti's delightful opera, La Figlia Del Reggimento. Brignoli and Susini also appear in prom inent roles and Gottachalk will play some of his most beautiful pieces.

GROVER'S THEATER. - Sheridan's sparkling comedy, "The Rivals," will be presented to aight, with Setchell as Bob Acres, and Jennie arker as Lydia Languish. The other parts of the play will be adequately sustained by Phillips, Meldrum, Tilton, Mrs. Germon, and the other prominent members of the comedy congress. This is the last night that the boards will be devoted specially to standard comedy.

WASHINGTON THEATER -Dr. Colton will deliver one of his interesting lectures on health this evening, and also administer laughing gas to any who may desire it in large or in small doses. The experiments are remarkably amusing, the gas developing the most prominent trait of character. The performance will be varied by a concert by the Tremaine Brothers.

CANTERBURY .- "The Haunted Hotel," a sidesplitting negro farce, is the card for to-night; Harry Rice appearing in a very comical charac ter. Lewis and Christie will perform their feat of "A Leap for Life;" and the beautiful ballet, Masaniello will also be produced. Dick Parker, the Court of Beauty, and all the old favorites ap-

FAIR -One of the pleasantest places now open of an evening is the Ladies' Fair, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, opposite Brown's Hotel. There is a very fine display of articles, both useful and ornamental, and the object of the fair is a meritorious one indeed, i. e., the support of domestic missions. It is open tonight with additional attractions.

TEMPERANCE HALL .- The Hibernia Club announce their fourteenth grand assembly at Temperance Hall to-night. A merry time may be an-

WASHINGTON ACADEMY OF MUSIC .- Vocal and instrumental music, of first class order. Concerts commence at 4% p. m., daily. Rosenthal's bar and larder are well stocked with the choicest wines and liquors, and most palatable catables.

SERBNADE TO GEN. FRANZ SIGEL .- Speeches by Sigel, Carl Schurz, Owen Lovejoy, E. B Washburne, and M. Z Gritzner -Pursuant to arrangements made yesterday afternoon, the friends of General Franz Sigel assembled last night on Pennsylvania avenue, in large numbers, of German and American citizens. Headed by a fine band, and carrying flags and banners, the crowd proceeded to Willards' Hotel and took position on Fourteenth st. Cries were immediately made for "Sigel;" and when the door of the private entrance on Fourteenth street opened and Sigel stepped forth upon the perch, a shout of welcome greated him from thousands of throats. porch was decorated by a fine display of American, French and German Flags.

Mr. J. R. French introduced Gen. Sigel, saying that, learning of his arrival, his friends, anxious to do him honor, had decided upon this as the most proper way. He would introduce to them General Franz Sigel, a hero who had led the American arms to victory, and who had rescued already one State from treason and secession. Cheers ]

Gen. Sigel said he had not come on a pleasure trip, or to gratify his own curlosity, but from a sense of duty at the direction of the President to awalt what he would have him do, otherwise he should do injustice to the gallant soldiers of the West, who had fought at Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge. [Cheers.] It was no time to gratify a personal vanity; he only wished to see if he could be of any service further to the glorious country in whose cause his sword was unsheathed; and he brought with him a hearty greeting from the army of the West. There was no difference between the army of the West and the army of the Potomac. They were all the cherished soldiers of the same glorious Union; children of the some country, and defenders of the same glotious flag. [Loud cheers ] In their dreary marches over the nills and along the waters of Arkansas and Missouri, he thought the army of the Potomac would not forget the brave men struggling there. In his trip from St. Louis to this city he had found the people ready for any emergency. If necessary all will come forward. But they want activity; they want a fight, and they want somebody to get hurt; the people would sooner see a bad retreat than a good standing still. A people whose energy increases with every danger are invincible. [Cheers ] But we must fight. and there should be no rest until the country is safe and every city in the south has become a central point of liberty, where the rights of free speech, free assemblage and a free press should have the fullest exercise. Tyranny and oppression cannot exist where such rights are exercised. Cheers

In thanking the audience for their kindness, be would not regard this compliment as personal to him, so much as a manifestation of sympathy with the army that has fought so bravely on the bloody fields of the West. [Great applause, and calls for "Schurz "] Carl Schurz appearing, said this hour belonged to their great and glorious fellow-citizen and distinguished friend, Sigel. He was proud to join the thousands present in the bestowel of a just tribute to the heroic soldier History can never permit to be forgotten the great retreat from Carthage, nor the more glorious six hundred (cheers) at Pea Ridge, who fought so bravely when cannon all around them, to the right and to the left. voileyed and thundered. He proposed three cheers for the gallant six hundred and their leader, which were given with a hearty good will. Mr. Schurs sald Gen. Sigel was a man who belongs to the whole American nation, though he hoped he would be pardoned if, as a German, he should feel his national pride a little tickled [Applause ] Sige! Was the noble representative of the great German war race, [cheers,] and he had not only secured the admiration of his friends, but had driven terror to the hearts of bis enemies. [Cheers ] If Jackson were now at the Potomac, and should hear these cheers, he would hesitate in his advance, and possibly advance in the other direction when he should learn that there was a dangerous man in the city. [Cheers, and calls for "Lovejoy."

Hon. Owen Lovejoy appeared, and was received with cheers and a few hisses. He would heartily join in a tribute to a brave soldier. The Teutonic heart had always sympathized with freedoth and constitutional government, and shed its blood in its defence. He would be justified in saying that through the march in Missouri he had never heard the German dialect utter a single disloyal sentiment. He was at Springfield when the order of retreat from Wilson's Creek reached that place, and would bear testimony to the feeling toward the guest of the evening. If we would trust the Germans they would trust us, and we should yet be one nation, in fact, as we are in destiny. was now no time to make the record of the war; the future historian should be left to do that work; but our spirits are cheered and hearts are nerved by such an opportunity as this to honor the brave. The unity of this nation is indeed enshrined in the hearts of the 30,000,000 of people and a government resting upon such a foundation cannot be overthrown; the gates of hell and rebellion cannot prevail against it. Our glorious flag now floats at Norfolk, at Yorktown, at Roanoke, at Port Royal, at Pensacola, at New Orleans, [voice, "and at Baltimore,"] and it will soon float in Richmond, and that same glorious flag, baptised in the blood of our fathers, and carried so proudly aloft at Shileh, Donelson, Henry, Pea Ridge, and other hotly contested fields, shall yet float over every square rood of American soil. He had just learned that it to-hight floated at Harrisonourg and Manassas Cap, and that probably Jackson was hemmed in. | Great applause. Voice-"Good speech-you didn't put the nigger in it." Bursts of laughter with thunders of applause.] Mr. L. replied, "I never bring in the nigger; I simply bring in universal freedom. [Cheering, with hisses mingled.]

Hon. E. B. Washburne was next introduced. He said it was an hour to do honor to Sigel. That brave and gallant soldier had drawn his sword for the West, but he would never sheathe It till the whole country was saved from the dangers which threatened it. Not only would we do honor to Gen. Sigel, but to his country, which had given 60,000 soldiers to our cause; and who had nobly railted under our banner to avenge the insults offered it, and who were making the earth to tremble with their mighty tread. In his own State, Illinois, in which were 75,000 battling for freedom, and moistening with their blood every bat le-field in the country, among whom a considerable number were Germans, who were first to rally to the defence of their adopted country, and of a constitution which they loved. We of the West known Sixel and we love the the West know Franz Sigel, and we love bim. We know Carthage, and Wilson's Creek, and Pea Ridge, and other fields where he has upheld the honor of our arms, and avenged the insults to our flag. [Loud Cheers ] Mr. M. Z Gritzner, of this city, was the next speaker. He addressed the multitude in German, and said that the name of Sigel was not new to the Germans. He was no new hero to them, though he might be to the Americans. General Sigel had been known long before to them. He has made his mark in the history of Germany. He had fought for German freedom at the battle of Waghauser, in which a mere parcel of raw troops, under the command of Sigel, overpowered the best-drilled soldiery of Europe, commanded by the present King of Prussia. We, as Germans, ought to feel an especial pride in our hero. He has exalted the German name in this country. By icans for the German element in this country. [Applause ] Loud caus were again made for Sigel; but the his gallantry he has won the respect of the Amer-multitude dispersed, highly gratified with their call upon the hero of Pea Ridge. General Sigel repaired to one of the parlors of the hotel; where he received his friends and acquaintances.

REFUGERS .- The family of Mr. Ethelbert Robey passed through the city vesterday afternoon; on their way to Maryland. Mr. Robey's fainily reside near Fairfax Court House, and having suf fered much during the past year, they concluded to leave the State, having heard that the rebels had retured to Manassas (1) Packing as much of household goods as they could in a wagon drawn by two oxen, and getting all the women and children aboard, they determined to leave the neighborhood of supposed danger, and seek more peaceful clime. Mr. Robey reports that the family of Mr. Josiah Bowman, and other restdents of his neighborhood have left, being will ing to lose home, property and all else, rather than endure again the miseries, privations and terrors of last year. THE OLD CAPITOL PRISON .- There are now held in the old brick Capitol 135 prisoners-103 of whom are prisoners of war, the rest being State prisoners. Amung the latter are three females viz: Mrs. Greenhow, Mrs. Morris, and Mrs. Bax ley; all in good health, except such as were sich when committed. From this place have lately been sent, at the request of Gov. Stanley, all the prisoners of war belonging to North Carolina. In the contraband (negro) depot there were 300 inmates, of all ages and sexes, unemployed. There are a considerable additional number em ployed daily in clearing up the old camps, burying dead horses, and other police labors. Until recently the arrivals at this depot have

THE LIGHT FAMILY .- This well-known family notorious in every part of the city, again occupied rooms in the Fourth Ward station last night. The head of the family having become a soldier, and not knowing how soon he might be called into the field, returned to the city to have at least a parting drunk with his loving poinpanion, and the lesser lights. The usual result followed-the father and mother got drunk and disorderly, and the daughters vied with each other in profanity. The father was turned over to the military, the mother was dismissed, and the three daughters were sent to Eden, alias the workhouse, to ruralize for thirty days.

AWAITING A REQUISITION.—Yesterday Officer Norwood was called upon to serve a warrant upon a young man named George W. French, who was accused of stealing a set of fine sable furs in Virginia. French eluded the officer, and succeeded in getting to the railroad depot, where he was arrested by the Metropolitan Police, Norwood sending a messenger to notify them, while he followed his track. French was taken to the office of Justice Donn, where the warrant was served by Officer Norwood. Justice Donn committed the prisoner to await a requisition from the Governor of Virginia.

SECOND EDITION.

THREE O'CLOCK, P. M.

CONGRESSIONAL. MAXVIIth CONGRESS Second Bessies.

WEDNESDAY, May 28 SENATE -A communication from the Secretary of the Navy covering the adverse report of the boatd to examine into and report on the propriety of completing the Stevens' battery, was received and referred. A message was received from the President stating that it was not compatible with the public interest at this time to furnish the information requested by the Senate relative to the political arrests made in Kentucky; referred.

Also, another similar to the message received in the House and there read yesterday. A bill making an appropriation for and authorizing the payment of certain bounties, was taken in and passed Mr. Harris presented several petitions for the enactment of a general bankrupt law. Mr. Willey presented a memorial of the Virinis Legislature in reference to the division of hat State, accompanied by a copy of the new constitution adopted by the people of the pro-osed new western State of Virginia. The bill donating public lands for the benefit of agricultural colleges, &c., was taken up, and was debated at length by Mr. Wilkinson, in opposition to it.

House .- A communication was received from the Secretary of the Navy transmitting the result of an examination, by a special board, of the Stevens' battery as a means of coast defense They think that for this purpose the plan will need essential modifications, owing to recent imprevements in naval warfare. The Secretary thinks that the intention of Congress was only to apply the sum heretofore appropriated (nearly $850,000) upon the battery on its original plan. should it have been approved, and therefore does not feel authorized to expend the sum according to the suggestions of the board. The Senate's amendments to the post route bill were concurred in Mr. Porter, of Ind., moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill to free the slaves of rebels was rejected and to postpone its consideration to Mr. Holman, of Ind., moved to lay the motion Mr. Blair moved a call of the House; lost-yeas

Mr Edwards moved to adjourn; lost-yeas 1 nays 156. Mr. Potter moved a call of the House; lostyeas 63, nays 77. The question recurring on the motion of Mr.

Holman to lay the motion of Mr. Porter on the table it was determined in the negative-yeas 69, The oil! was then postponed.

CIRCUIT COURT, May 27.—In the matter of Wilson Copeland, claimed as a fugitive slave by Ignatius Waters, of Montgomery county, Maryland, Mr. Dean presented the petition of Daniel Breed, of this city, praying that a writ of habeas corpus may issue to Marshal Lamon, commanding him to produce the body of said Copeland. The petition sets forth that said Copeland is imprisoned and restrained of his liberty illegally, and that neither the act of Congress approved February 12, 1793, nor any other act, authorizes such imprisonment. The Court was about to refuse the application.

but Mr. Dean requested to be heard on the sub-ject, and expressed his belief that he could convince the Court, by argument of their constitutional right to grant the writ; and the Court set Thursday morning at 9 o'clock for the hearing.

May 28.—The witnesses have all been examined in the case of Hamilton, Easter & Co., vs. Hugh B. Sweeney, Chas. E. Rittenhouse, H. G. Fant, Samuel Fowler, and W. T. Heron; and the argument commenced this afternoon.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT .- As Mr. Hammack, from Washington, was driving a lady friend named Wheeler, of this city, out in a buggy, on Monday afternoon last, on Charles street, near the bridge, his horse became unmanageable, and started off at a furious rate of speed. The young lady was thrown out of the buggy, and received several severe bruises. Mr. Hammack held on to the reins for some time after Miss Wheeler was thrown out, until one of the wheels of the buggy struck the curbstone, the force of which threw him out. His head was severely cut in two or three places, and he was othewise bruised. They were both removed to the residence of Miss Wheeler, on Gay street, near Second, where Mr. H. was boarding, and Dr. John H. Buckler was called to attend them.—Baltimore Clipper.

PARDONS.—The President has pardon Emanu-el Rifferd, who was convicted of larceny at the December term of the Criminal Court, and sen-December term of the Criminal Court, and sentenced to the pentientiary for 15 months, and James Ranking, a soldier, who was convicted in June last, of robbery and sentenced to 3 years years imprisonment. The reasons for granting the former is that an investigation has been had and there is some doubt of his guilt, and that he had borne a good character; and for the latter pardon, that some palliating circumstances have been adduced, rendering his guilty intention MILITARY ARREST.—A squad of the Provost Guard arrested William Horner, hackman, yesterday afternoon, near the War Department, and after taking him to the Provost Marshai's office, he was sent to the Oid Capitol prison. The charge is said to be that he had used some derigive remark to some soldiers.

BADLY BITTEN.—This morning a victors deg belonging to Mr. Aigher, who resides on the Avenue, near the Capitol gate, attacked a young lady named Codrick, in the neighborhood, and bit her about the arms badly before he could be
